Southdale Center Announces Plans for New Upscale Steak and Seafood Restaurant from Creators of Baldamar and 6Smith

MINNEAPOLIS – Simon® (NYSE:SPG), a real estate investment trust engaged in the ownership of premier shopping, dining, entertainment and mixed-use destinations, today announced a new upscale steak and seafood restaurant by the creators of Baldamar and 6Smith will open at Southdale Center next year.

While plans are still in development, the modern American steak and seafood restaurant will be located at Southdale Center with a separate exterior entrance. It is expected to have seating for just over 200 guests.

“We’re delighted to be a part of the dynamic transformation and highly anticipated redevelopment of Edina’s beloved Southdale Center,” said Randy Stanley, who, along with his wife and business partner, Sharon, own and operate two other highly successful steak and seafood concepts in the Minneapolis/St. Paul area. “As with our other two restaurants, this will be a unique concept customized to cater to the lifestyle of the Edina community and surrounding area.”

Together the Stanleys have more than 60 years of combined restaurant experience. They opened their first independently owned restaurant, 6Smith, in 2014, followed by Baldamar in 2019. Both restaurants have a unique feel and personality, and have proven to be wildly successful, appealing equally to both men and women.

“The addition of the Stanley’s newest concept is just one more step in the evolution and comprehensive transformation of Southdale Center,” said Tom Hanchar, VP of Leasing at Simon. “We’re eager for our neighbors to come rediscover Southdale Center, whether that’s perusing the over 50+ additions of luxury
